

Contents

Reclaiming Catholic History: Series Introduction	xi
Chronology for The Church and the Roman Empire (301–490)	xv
Map	xviii
Introduction	xxi
Chapter 1: The Underground	1
Up Close and Personal: St. Agnes of Rome	15
You Be the Judge: Do Christians exaggerate the persecutions?	18
Chapter 2: The Revolution	21
Up Close and Personal: Eusebius of Caesarea	24
You Be the Judge: Did Constantine force Christianity on unwilling pagans?	32
Chapter 3: Nicaea	35
Up Close and Personal: Who attended the Council of Nicaea?	42
You Be the Judge: Did Constantine create the Bible?	51
Chapter 4: The Empire Christianized	53
Up Close and Personal: St. Athanasius of Alexandria	56
You Be the Judge: Weren't bishops originally elected by the people?	65
Chapter 5: Pope Constantius	67
Up Close and Personal: Five Who Chucked Everything for a Life of Solitude	72
You Be the Judge: None of the early councils of the Church were about the Eucharist. Doesn't that indicate that no one believed in the Real Presence of Christ until much later?	79

Chapter 6: The Counterrevolution	81
Up Close and Personal: St. Basil the Great	85
Chapter 7: The Christian Empire and Beyond	93
Up Close and Personal: St. Ephrem of Syria	96
You Be the Judge: Didn't Christianity harm the status of women?	105
Chapter 8: A Tale of Two Bishops	107
Up Close and Personal: St. Ambrose the Songwriter	114
Chapter 9: An Age of Titans	121
Up Close and Personal: St. Monica of Hippo	126
Chapter 10: Decline and Fall	133
Up Close and Personal: Pilgrims of the Fourth Century	139
You Be the Judge: Isn't the Church's Marian piety a fifth-century innovation?	143
Chapter 11: A Lamp in the Twilight	145
Up Close and Personal: Irish Catholics	149
You Be the Judge: Wasn't supreme papal authority an invention of the Middle Ages?	152
The End	155
Acknowledgments	157
Notes	158
For Further Reading	163
Index	165